Nadia Nicoleta Morărașu

The Stylistic Identity of English Literary Texts

Editura ALMA MATER – BACĂU
2014

CONTENTS

Foreword 10

1. STYLE: AN INTERDISCIPLINARY PERSPECTIVE 13
1.1. Definitions of style 13
1.2. Style and language 17
1.3. Style in writing 20
1.4. Style in literature 23
1.4.1. Text style and authorial style 23
1.4.2. Styles in English literary texts 27
1.5. Style as a topical issue in contemporary life 33

2. THE STUDY OF STYLE 37
2.1. The subject/ object of stylistics 37
2.2. Definitions of stylistics 39
2.3. Stylistics and other disciplines 43
2.3.1. Stylistics and linguistics 45
2.3.2. Stylistics and narratology 47
2.4. Branches of stylistics 50
2.4.1. Linguistic stylistics vs. literary stylistics 50
2.5. English forerunners of stylistic studies 53

3. STYLE AND TEXT 56
3.1. Defining texts and their contexts 56
3.2. Text type identification 63
3.3. Textuality 65
3.3.1. Textual strategies 65
3.3.2. Principles of textuality 66
3.3.2.1. Text cohesion 67

3.3.2.2. Coherence by patterns of textual organisation 73
3.3.2.3. Intertextuality 75
3.4. Literarity 79

4. STYLE AND DISCOURSE 80
4.1. The nature of discourse 80
4.2. Discourse types 83
4.2.1. Literary and non-literary discourse 90
4.3. Levels of discourse and textual dimensions 93
4.4. Stylistic discourse categories 98
4.4.1. The category of medium 99
4.4.1.1. Features of spoken and written texts 102
4.4.2. The category of participation 106
4.4.2.1. Direct and indirect discourse 107
4.5. Discourse strategies in literary texts 111
4.5.1. Discursive strategies in embedded fictional and poetic texts 112
4.5.2. The multi-layered discourse architecture of drama texts 117

5. SHAPING THE STYLISTIC IDENTITY OF LITERARY TEXTS 122
5.1. Components of stylistic identity 122
5.2. Stylistic features vs. levels of style 126
5.2.1. The level of verbal form 127
5.2.1.1. Stylistically relevant prosodic features 127
5.2.1.2. Graphic and graphological features 132
5.2.2. The level of meaning 137
5.2.2.1. Meaning terminology and description 137

5.2.2.2. Stylistic features of lexis 139
5.2.2.3. Derived and compound words 143
5.2.2.4. Semantic relations with stylistic relevance 146
5.2.3. Style and grammar 149
5.2.3.1. Grammatical features 149
5.2.3.2. Stylistic functions of the parts of speech 150
5.2.3.3. Grammatical and rhetorical aspects of sentences 157
5.3. Devices in literary texts 168
5.3.1. Linguistic devices 168
5.3.1.1. Expressive vs. evocative devices 168
5.3.1.2. Cross-sentence cohesive devices 176
5.3.2. Rhetorical devices vs. stylistic devices 177
5.3.3. Foregrounding devices 203

6. EXPLORING LITERARY TEXTS BY ANALYTICAL TOOLS 208
6.1. Ways of exploring texts 208
6.2. Textual analysis 210
6.2.1. Linguistic analysis 211
6.3. Stylistic analysis vs. literary interpretation 215
7.3.1. Intuitive style characterization 219
6.4. From analysis of discourse styles to stylistic discourse analysis 222
6.4.1. Analysis of the text's organisation as discourse 222
6.4.2. Discourse-stylistic analysis 225

Wrapping up “with style” 235

Annex 1. Styles of English writers 238
Annex 2. A Glossary of devices used in literary texts 245
BIBLIOGRAPHY 261
Index of style-related terms 289